The brain map

Here is where each piece goes.

How to play

1. Print

Print every page at 100% (actual size), all with the same settings, so the pieces fit the boards. Card stock makes the pieces sturdier.

2. Cut

Cut out the six pieces along their outside lines. Some pieces are small, so play alongside children who still put things in their mouths.

3. Play

Start with the color board: each part is outlined in its own color, so your child can match shape and color. When that feels easy, switch to the outline board, which shows only the outline of the brain.

4. Name the parts

Say each part's name as it goes down, and use the answer key and the parent's cheat sheet for what each part is involved in.
